Looking for a meaningful way to spend your lunch break? Mark your calendars for Tuesday, 28th January 2025, because ILMI's brilliant VOICE Team is hosting a special online event you won't want to miss!

At 1:00 PM, writer, journalist, and disability activist Lucy Webster will join us on Zoom to share her insights, stories, and experiences as a young disabled woman. Lucy has captured the hearts and minds of readers with her critically acclaimed book The View from Down Here: Life as a Young Disabled Woman, and now, she's bringing her incredible perspective directly to you.

Lucy's talk promises to be an engaging and thought-provoking session. She'll delve into her lived experiences, shedding light on the challenges and triumphs of navigating the world as a disabled person. With a combination of humour, resilience, and activism, Lucy's voice resonates deeply, offering a powerful reminder of the importance of inclusion and understanding.

This event is an unmissable opportunity, Lucy's perspective is fresh, authentic, and full of wit, making her talk not only enlightening but truly enjoyable.

How to Join

The talk will take place on Zoom, so you can participate from wherever you are. To register, simply email Paula Soraghan at paulasoraghan@ilmi.ie (<mailto:paulasoraghan@ilmi.ie>). It's easy, and it's free!

So, grab your lunch, settle in, and prepare to be rocked by one of the most engaging voices in disability advocacy. Let's make this lunchtime session a celebration of shared stories, collective empowerment, and the power of lived experience. We can't wait to see you there!
