

Bray Women's Refuge (<https://www.activelink.ie/node/641>)

The Bray Women's Refuge is an Irish voluntary organisation working to combat the social effects of domestic violence by:

- providing secure crisis accomodation for women and their children who are escaping from physical, sexual and mental abuse in their homes.
- providing support and relevant information for women regardless of whether they are resident in the refuge or not.
- assisting women understand their legal rights and entitlements.
- increasing general public awareness on the issues relating to domestic violence.
- lobbying the state regarding relevant legislation to make Ireland a safer place for all who experience violence and abuse.
