developmenteducation.ie is a free online resource to educators in community, youth and formal education focused on the unequal and unjust nature of the world today.

It offers resources to stimulate debate and discussion about the issues and challenges we face and which encourage us to make decisions about the type of world we need and want to create.

Visit www.developmenteducation.ie \(https://developmenteducation.ie\)

Some of the issues explored include child labour, the refugee crisis on Europe's borders, climate change and world hunger.

Some of the features available on the site include:

- An integrated resources library \(https://developmenteducation.ie/resources/\) that houses teaching resources, cartoons, galleries, videos and more
- Development issues debates \(https://developmenteducation.ie/features/debates/\), a showcase of case studies \(https://developmenteducation.ie/features/stories-of-change/\) in development education, and a blog \(https://developmenteducation.ie/blog/\) with practitioner, teacher and activist reflections
- An infographics section - Visualising data for development education \(https://developmenteducation.ie/features/stories-of-change/\) - with some of our own, our partners and the best on the rest

As an online for learners and educators submissions to developmenteducation.ie on any of these dimensions are welcome!

About the partnership project
